

As the app is currently single user there is only one instance of a ClaimList that persists throughout the use of the app. Once multi-user functionality is added there will be a User class and each user will have their own ClaimList.

Each Claim contains a list of items as well as its own individual details which are collected on creation.

Each item is created by Activity_ItemNew and must be stored inside a claim.

